OUR INSURANCE RATES.
The Expenses of the Fire and Water Department saved by Lowering of Rates.

Mr. C. P. Whitford, of Beloit, was in the city to-day, and was a social caller at the Gazette office. Mr. Whitford is the compact manager of the insurance business of this district, and has the adjusting of all insurance rates. In reply to a question he informed the Gazette that owing to the excellent condition of our fire department and the water supply, a reduction had been made in the rates in Janesville more than equaling the combined cost of the fire department and hydrant rental. This fact he stated was easy to prove, and at the request of the Gazette Mr. Whitford has promised to write a communication for publication showing these facts. This will be most gratifying news to our property owners, proving that the promises made the people before these improvements were inaugurated have been fulfilled, and that the money expended in securing a water works plant and improving the fire department, has been that amount of money saved to the property owners. The Gazette will await with considerable anxiety the receipt of Mr. Whitford's communication.

IMAGINARY PICTURES.

They Are Not Over Drawn in Relation to the Future of the Bower City.

LET ALL LEND HARMONIOUS ENTHUSIASM TO THE BOOM.

And the Fondest Hopes Will Soon Be Realized by Additional Manufacturing Industries.

The Gazette has been criticised a little to-day for the imaginary picture drawn last evening of the conditions possible in 1900. The paper is not inclined to offer any apologies, however, but is disposed to stand by the original proposition.

There is only one thing that can possibly prevent the prediction being realized, and that is the name of the city. If Mr. James had christened the place, Janesborough, the town would never have called for a city charter. As it is the name has failed to make much of an impression east of Chicago, and were it not for the fact that the vestibule train puts us on a trunk line between the great east and the great west, we would yet be doomed to oblivion.

Go to New York, Philadelphia, or Boston to-day and you will be surprised at the number of people who will ask you how much of a village JANESVILLE is, and how far it is from the nearest railroad station.

A gentle earthquake or a well disposed cyclone would be a blessing to us in the way of thoroughly advertising the city. How we ever managed to escape together twelve thousand people in forty years is a mystery equal to the unknown addition.

But then we shall overcome this objection and Janesville will yet become a household word.

Why?

Because she is located near the great distributing center, and because her citizens are waking up to the fact that growth and development must begin at home.

The manufacturers throughout New England and the eastern states are commencing to realize that the only way to hold their western trade, is to locate some where near it. As a result, every year finds more and more of them moving west.

A gentleman who has traveled in Wisconsin for the past fifteen years for one of the best shoe manufacturers in Syracuse, New York, recently said to a Janesville manufacturer, who he met in Racine:

"I have been here for two days, and haven't sold a dollar's worth of goods, and after I make Milwaukee, there isn't a thing left for me this side of St. Paul."

"Well, what's the matter?" was asked, good naturedly.

"Matter enough," he replied; "you western fellows get around every thirty and sixty days, and sell a few cases of goods, and when we come around twice a year, there isn't a thing left for us."

That tells the whole story, and so the factories pack up and come west, and they are bound to come every year. The only question is, how many can Janesville capture?

It is reported from good authority that as soon as the Hall and Hanson companies are organized another proposition will be submitted from a concern now employing two hundred men, with a view to increasing the force to five hundred.

When it becomes generally known that Janesville is offering substantial inducements for manufacturing industries there will be no lack of opportunity.

A gentleman has been in the city for the past month picking up five hundred cases of tobacco for his cigar factory located at a small town in Illinois. He commenced in a small way, some years ago and has developed a business that yielded last year 8,000,000 cigars, employing one hundred and thirty-five men. He is much pleased with Janesville, and may be induced to change his location.

If every man who feels an interest in the prosperity of the city, will appoint himself a committee of one to invite manufacturers to come and look us over, we shall yet become a city of some magnitude in spite of the name.

MATRIMONIAL.

Evans-Dejardins.
It has just been learned in this city that a quiet wedding was celebrated in Milwaukee last Tuesday, April 8th.

The bride is a native of Chicago, and is a young lady who has lots of friends in her native city.

The many friends of the young couple, both here and in Chicago will wish them joy and happiness.

A FINE ENTERTAINMENT.

The Madison Banjo and Glee Club to appear in this city.

The Patriots Order Sons of America have made arrangements with the Madison Banjo and Glee Club to appear at the Congregational church Friday evening, April 26th. This club is the finest organization of the kind on the road and they will have a packed house.

The object of the concert is to raise funds to place the American flag on each of the public school houses. This is a very laudable object and they should be liberally encouraged by the citizens. Don't fail to buy a ticket.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

A Team of Colts Stir Things up on Milwaukee Street This Morning.

The west side was the scene of a lively runaway about ten o'clock this morning. The streets were full of teams at the time, and the narrow escapes were many. The team that took the longest run was the property of Mr. Judson Robinson, who lives north of the city, in the town of Janesville. They were standing near Ford's mill, on the race, when they became frightened at something and started to run. They came down the race like a whirlwind and turned into Milwaukee street. As they came by the flour mill of Ford & Crockett, they scared a team belonging to Mr. Sylvester White, and they also started. They collided with Crockett's scales as they went by, and running out of the alley crashed into R. L. Colvin's bakery wagon. The pole of the lumber wagon struck the side of the bakery wagon and smashed a good sized hole in the side and broke a whiffletree. There was a team of bronchos attached to the bakery wagon, but Adam Skelly, the driver, kept them from running. He was uninjured. Mr. White's team was stopped, but not so was Mr. Robinson's outfit. They were a team of colts and were composed of different stuff. They went up Milwaukee street on a dead run, spilling the grain bags and young trees with which the wagon was loaded, along the street. They met with no obstacle until they were in the vicinity of the Grand Hotel where a man ran out and endeavored to stop them. He got hold of a halter that one of the horses had on and was thrown down and rolled in the street for his pains. The horses continued up Milwaukee street to Academy where they turned off. They ran down Academy street, to Wall, and down Wall to River. They came down River street at a rapid pace and safely passed between the drays at the intersection of Milwaukee and River street, continued down River street to the Center street. Here they ran around the block and were caught on Pleasant street. No damage other than the breaking of the reach of the wagon was done to the outfit. The horses were uninjured.

Ford & Crockett will have to have some repairs made to their scales, and it will cost Mr. Colvin something to get his wagon repaired. On the whole, it was very lucky.

A woman had a narrow escape from being run down as the team passed the old soap factory. She escaped without injury, but was thoroughly frightened.

THE BIG TRAIN.

It Passed Through at Noon on the C. & N. W. Railroad.

The big train of the Deering Harvest Works passed through the city at noon to-day. The train consisted of thirty-eight cars decked with flags and bunting. Each car had a large sign on its bearing the name of "Wm. Deering & Co., Chicago. All steel light Champion Mowers and Binders." The train was drawn by two heavy freight engines also decorated with flags. Even the brakemen had stars and stripes in their hats, and as they passed a small boy with a loud, shrill voice enquired "Where'd yer get that hat?" It seemed as though all the "kids" in town were up there and a good portion of the men as well. Marshal Hogan had a good time of it keeping the boys off the track. The train had a flat car with two machines set up, and a band on board which played as they passed through. They also had a passenger coach attached for the musicians and managers, as well as a caboose for the trainmen.
